STATINTL

Dear Russ:

Sorry that I have not written before this to answer your letter. We are quite busy and have been for some time. This is just a stop-gap to let you know we haven't forgotten you. Carl received that resumé you forwarded recently--I haven't had a chance to learn his reaction. I know he is well acquainted with John and will give the matter proper consideration. Incidentally, be careful on such transmittals--seems like there are many regulations on form and a number were mangled. This was called to our attention. I'll go into detail via other channels.

It seems a contradiction to how busy we are, but the next two weeks I must go on Navy training duty. No time seems to be the right time, and yet I can't let it pass by. So there will be another interval before you hear from me.

We have received your recent memo of early February. May I suggest that you write a newsy report on your activities and associations. It would be well received. I promise, in return, to keep a steady stream of material going your way starting the last week of March.

Rosemary and Jane, in particular, miss Evelyn; and we all send our very best wishes to you all.

As always,

/s/ mad
